

Melville Douglas STANLIB High Alpha Fund

Fund information update at 30 November 2018

What is the fund's objective?

The High Alpha Fund is a high-conviction, actively managed, South African listed securities fund. The primary objective of this fund is to generate capital growth over the long term, with income generation as a secondary objective. Performance is further enhanced by exploiting short-term market pricing anomalies.

What does the fund invest in?

The fund is a pure equity portfolio, with the objective of delivering returns in excess of the FTSE/JSE All Share over time.

What possible risks are associated with this fund?

General market risks include a rise or volatility in bond yields, rising interest rates, economic and political risk, inflation uncertainty and duration risk. Where foreign securities are included in the portfolio there may be additional risks, such as potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds, macro-economic risks, political risks, tax risks, settlement risks, and potential limitations on the availability of market information.

	Class A	Class B1
Based on period from:	01/10/2015	01/10/2015
Total Expense	1.88%	1.42%
Transaction Costs	0.17%	0.17%
Total Investment Charge	2.05%	1.59%
1 Year Total Expense	1.77%	1.35%

Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

2018 continues to be disappointing for SA equity investors. The quarter to September as down 1.3%, and the 12 month rolling performance of the ALSI more than halving from 7.2% at the end of August to 3.3% at the end of September. The JSE's three and five year returns are well below historical averages. Emerging markets remained under pressure, spooked by events in Turkey, Brazil and Argentina. A stronger US dollar, reduced US dollar liquidity and a higher oil price have added to the pressure for emerging markets. The fund was flat over the quarter, 1.3% ahead of the benchmark. The resource counters continued to help the performance of the fund while the SA facing counters had a tough period given the lack of performance from the local economy where we continue to see downward earnings revisions. As always, we remain diversified in the fund and focus on companies that have defensive earnings qualities and robust balance sheets.

Market overview

Despite the concerns about oscillating trade tensions between USA and China, September was a better month for emerging markets compared to August's indiscriminate sell-off. The central banks in key EMs raised interest rates, whilst the SARB opted to leave rates unchanged. The decision was a close call though, with three members of the seven-member committee voting for a rate hike. In its meeting the SARB revised its inflation forecast upward and sees inflation moving away from the target midpoint but remaining within the 3.0% – 6.0% target band until 4Q2020. Our interest rate view has now changed, and we see the SARB keeping rates on hold at 6.50% for the remainder of the year but the risks for further rate hikes in 2019 have increased.

Increased trade tensions between the US and China have put a damper on global trade and the higher oil price is slowly eating into consumers disposable income in SA and abroad. Brexit is looming, with uncertainty continuing to weigh on confidence levels and economic activity. Italy's budget announcement will have the bond vigilantes circling. The rand has made up some loss ground against the major developed market currencies after the significant sell off in August – broadly in line with other EM currencies.

We believe that tightening global financial conditions, the US trade standoff and domestic politics ahead of general elections could weigh heavy on our capital markets and the rand in the near term. Although we are starting to see some valuation underpin, we are still cautious and will remain defensively positioned.

Looking ahead

The divergence in growth between the US and the rest of the world continues to widen. Disappointing growth outside the US is one reason, but a stronger dollar and a decline in US dollar global liquidity are also to blame. Economic growth and investment returns outside the US have disappointed this year. The liquidity screws have been slowly tightened and global trade has softened. Consumer spending has remained robust in developed economies where strong growth in employment and income have provided an important underpin. A stronger dollar and trade uncertainties have prevented any acceleration in investment spending outside of the US. Political risks remain elevated as well: Italy poses ongoing concerns in Europe, BREXIT negotiations will heat up, and trade policy is not fully resolved. Eurozone growth is reasonable but will need to be very robust to cope.

SA is stuck in a low-confidence cycle and a recession, which complicate the outlook; but it has all the required basics to enable a cyclical recovery, even without lower interest rates. While most investors are watching for a catalyst to improve confidence and lead to an economic recovery, it is more likely that there will be a slow and stealthy recovery. At some point an accumulation of factors will have combined to lift things and we'll be out of recession.

All performance returns figures quoted are shown in ZAR and are based on data sourced from Morningstar or Statpro and are as at 30 November 2018.

Annualised return figures are the compound annualised growth rate (CAGR) calculated from the cumulative return for the period being measured. These annualised returns provide an indication of the annual return achieved over the period had an investment been held for the entire period. Actual annual figures are available on request from the Manager.

Portfolio performance figures are calculated for the relevant class of the portfolio, for a lump sum investment, on a NAV-NAV basis, with income reinvested on the ex-dividend date. Individual investor performance may differ due to initial fees, actual investment date, date of reinvestment of income and dividend withholding tax. Portfolio performance accounts for all costs that contribute to the calculation of the cost ratios quoted, all returns quoted are after these costs have been accounted for.

Statistics - Positive Months: the number of individual 1 month periods during the specified time period where the return was not negative; Max Gain: the maximum gain in a trough-to-peak incline before a new trough is attained, quoted as the percentage between the trough and the peak. It is an indicator of upside risk over a specified time period (quoted for all periods of 1 year or longer); Max Drawdown: the maximum loss in a peak-to-trough decline before a new peak is attained, quoted as the percentage between the peak and the trough. It is an indicator of downside risk over a specified time period (quoted for all periods of 1 year or longer, where blank no loss was experienced); Highest and Lowest: the highest and the lowest 1 year return (%) that occurred during the specified time period (quoted for all relevant classes launched 1 year or more prior to current month end date).
