Total Expense	1.47%
Transaction Costs	0.00%
Total Investment Charge	1.47%
1 Year Total Expense	1.52%

Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

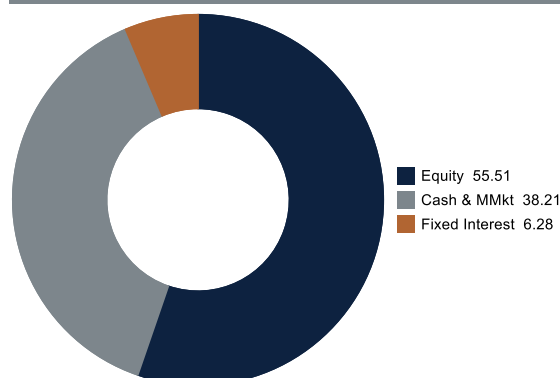

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

Over the quarter, the fund delivered a positive return, marginally behind a benchmark return of 2.3%. The underperformance was the result of an underperformance from both the global equity and cash enhancement components in the fund.

Within equity, our overweight to communication services and having no exposure to energy and real estate were the key contributors to our positive allocation over the quarter. Our stock selection detracted from returns, with our exposure in the semiconductor space through NVIDIA and TSMC helping offset weakness in the consumer space with the likes of Estee Lauder, LVMH and Starbucks underperforming.

The cash plus component delivered positive returns in the quarter although was slightly behind benchmark. Cash/money market yields (sub six months) remain anchored to overnight cash rates, however we expect these yields to fall once the Federal Reserve Open Market Committee (FOMC) commence interest rate cuts later in the year.

Market overview

Risk assets enjoyed another positive quarter as global economic growth looks to be increasingly on a firm footing, and now expected to expand in line with historical trends of around 3% per annum over the next few years. Equity investors will be pleased with the returns at the mid-point of the year, with global equities up a little over 11% in US dollar terms and 12% in sterling terms. Some major western world equity indices are reaching new all-time highs, despite a hostile and volatile global geopolitical backdrop, and lack of support from global bond yields, which have been trending higher this year on the back of stronger than expected economic growth and still elevated core inflation. One of the features from the current uptrend in global equities has been the consistent trend of concentration amongst the noteworthy performers, primarily driven by the technology sector. If it were not for the sector's relative strength, global equities would not have much to boast about this year. With Artificial Intelligence (AI) / Magnificent 7 stocks continuing to dominate, the defensive names and sectors seem to remain in a competition for the wooden spoon. With regards to the lack of market breadth, look no further than the Russell 2000 (small caps) and/or the equally weighted S&P500 index, both of which remain rangebound on the back of lacklustre revenue and earnings growth.

Looking ahead

Central banks will be pleased that an early year inflation acceleration is fading but will be hesitant to cut interest rates too soon or too aggressively while core inflation is hovering above 3%, as tight labour markets and elevated wage gains limit service sector disinflation. The implications of higher-for-long policy stances over the medium term are uncertain, and something that we will continue to monitor closely.

While risks remain, we acknowledge that inflation rates have declined sharply over the past year and that the disinflationary trend appears to be firmly intact. Also, interest rates have peaked, and financial conditions have eased materially which have contributed to the reduction in risk premium across asset classes. These factors combined with the expected broadening out of corporate earnings growth across a wider range of sectors as the year progresses are expected to keep valuations afloat. As such, equities are our preferred asset class, followed by bonds over cash.
